Application Instructions

If you hold a faculty position as an Assistant Professor or comparable rank and your research focuses on OMT related topics, we encourage you to apply to the JFC. Late stage post-docs may also apply for consideration. We also invite deans, department chairs, former participants, and other faculty to encourage their junior colleagues to apply.

The consortium is designed to allow for high levels of interaction. To maintain a high mentor/participant ratio, space for this consortium remains limited. Interested participants must be OMT members (either already or by joining now).

Applications are due by April 30th, 2024 and require the submission of the following information:

1. Your name, email address, title, institutional affiliation
2. An indication of three faculty mentors who are of most interest to you
3. Your curriculum vitae
4. An extended abstract of a working paper on which you wish to receive feedback (5 pages maximum). Please name your abstract using the following convention: Last name_ Title of paper. For example, "James_ Towards a Theory of Social Evaluations".

Several waivers of the AOM conference's registration fees and stipends are available to support participants who are interested in applying but lack budget/resources from their schools or otherwise.

Please submit your application form via the following link: <https://forms.gle/q6xpQE24mkzrSDAZ7> and upload CV and extended abstract to the Dropbox folder here.

If you have any questions, please contact the organizers Madeline Toubiana, toubiana@telfer.uottawa.ca and Emily Block, eblock@ualberta.ca. We look forward to seeing you in-person at AOM!

A big thank you to our generous sponsors for making this possible.
